Dr Adam Fletcher, Senior Lecturer in Social Science and Health is visiting the Section for Health Promotion and Health Services

Adam Fletcher will make a presentation with the title:

Realist RCTs: a new approach to evaluating complex social interventions

Tuesday, November 4th 2014, 14:00-16:00
Aarhus Universitet, Samfundsmedicinsk Auditorium
(locale 101), Bygning 1262, Bartholins Allé 4, 8000
Aarhus C

After the lecture there will be a reception at Bldg. 1261, ”Frokoststuen”.

Bibliography: Adam Fletcher is an inter-disciplinary public health scientist with training in sociology (PhD LSHTM), social epidemiology (MSc Oxon) and social policy (BSc LSE). His research focuses on the social determinants of young people's health and wellbeing, particularly the effects of education policies and school environments on health outcomes. He uses inter-disciplinary conceptual frameworks and mixed methods. He have been funded by the UK Medical Research Council and the National Institute of Health Research to develop and evaluate complex interventions which modify the school social environment in order to improve public health

Contact and information: Loni Ledderer, mail: loni.ledderer@ph.au.dk or phone: +45 20467030